MEMORANDUM

JUNE 14, 2011

TO: Facilities and Services Project Customers

FROM: Glen Haubold Glen
Assistant Vice-President of Facilities and Services

SUBJECT: Customer Bill of Rights

We are always looking for ways to improve our service. The success of PROJECT DELIVERY is dependent upon three very important factors:

- Expectations
- Communications
- Trust

You might note that I didn't trot out the tired and worn "on time and within budget". While those are certainly important metrics for the measurement of the success of a project that we owe every customer, "on time and within budget" is usually the end result of a well-managed project. In our experience, most of the difficulties arise when the expectations and communications aren't clear from the beginning.

The most important component is trust, because well-defined expectations and clear communications are built upon trust.

To help build that relationship, we have compiled a "Customer Bill of Rights" for our project customers. I have asked that this be included in the bi-weekly update that each of our customers is receiving from their Project Manager.

Your satisfaction is important to us, and I invite you to let us know how we're doing.
