

Battle of I-25

Congratulations to Conference Services for winning the Battle of I-25 Door Decorating Contest. All departments within Corbett Center were challenged to decorate their doors and get students excited about the rivalry game. Students were able to vote for their favorite door and the winner was announced at the NMSU vs UNM football game on Sep. 10th.

ICT Stops Malicious Emails

In a span of 30 days, ICT's PC Server Administration group analyzed a total of 658 million email messages. They identified and blocked 650 million spam/phishing/virus-containing or otherwise unwanted email messages. Approximately 99% of all email messages received at NMSU can be considered potentially dangerous, leaving 8 million legitimate messages to be delivered to their intended destinations.

Football Night

Corbett Center Aggie Lounge provides viewing of Monday Night Football and Thursday Night Football every week.

Cityscapes: Seattle

The special cultural student engagement lunch in Taos Restaurant provided NMSU students, faculty and staff samples of new dishes that best encapsulate Seattle's flavor. Hot porchetta sandwiches, salmon cakes, crispy garlic potato wedges, teriyaki cabbage slaw, chocolate espresso crumble coffee cake and cherry biscotti were served.

Mike Guerra's Magnificent Meals

Chef Mike Guerra's Magnificent Meals in the Taos presented a Shrimp Boil which included shrimp, red potatoes, corn, with topping options such as lemons and cocktail sauce with coleslaw, watermelon cucumber salad, and Parmesan corn muffins.

3rd Floor Bistro

A New Orleans Buffet was offered at The 3rd Floor Bistro for lunch. This all-you-care-to-eat buffet featured shrimp and andouille jambalaya, blackened chicken breast, creole green beans, pasta salad, white rice, house salad with Cajun ranch dressing, fresh rolls with butter and carrot cake.

Educational Outreach

Facilities and Services provided a key to Jered Korfhage, Plant and Environmental Sciences Graduate Assistant, to conduct laboratory exercise for Soils 252. He will be touring the area with his students to identify plants and soils. Operations is always quick to coordinate this type of request as it directly supports NMSU's mission to educate students.

ICT's Student Technology & Planning group represents at Aggiefest

On September 7, the International Mall was bustling with students eager to immerse themselves in Aggie college culture and learn about what New Mexico State University has to offer. Student Technology & Planning was there and had more than 150 students visit their table. Student Tech's Annette Candelaria and Araceli Hernandez provided valuable information about the equipment rental program, computer lab locations, and printing availability while giving away lots of NMSU-labeled goodies to all who visited at their table.
